

Dear Fellow Veterinarian,

As a practitioner with limited expertise in performing ultrasound exams, I have relied for many years, including the last four with Dr. Marty Henderson, on the more advanced skills of other veterinarians. There have been many cases where ultrasound has been the only practical tool capable of helping me learn a diagnosis, and many more where it has sharpened the diagnosis and improved my ability to offer therapy.

Dr. Henderson has always been patient with my requests for explanation of the images he generates, and I have always appreciated the insight our discussion of cases has helped me gain. My clients seem to like the visual descriptions ultrasound allows me to give them, and are grateful for the minimal negative impact it has on their pets. It continues to be a useful tool for me, and I am happy to recommend Dr. Henderson as one who has been essential in helping me provide it.

Sincerely,

Robert Reed, DVM
